

REP. CLINT MOSES
WISCONSIN STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Wisconsin State Representative Clint Moses: Work is good for your health and the community

The COVID-19 pandemic caused many people to lose their jobs or stay home from work, exacerbating Wisconsin's workforce problems. Today, Wisconsin has thousands of jobs available, but many Wisconsinites have not returned to the workforce.

Here, Wisconsin State Representative Clint P. Moses discusses the need to get people back to work. He argues that the longer someone is not working, the less likely they will return to work. However, getting back to work brings a sense of purpose that is good for one's health and the community.

"It's important for a person to get back to meaningful work... to be a contributing member to society and just feel good about themselves."

—REP. CLINT MOSES

At FGA, our workforce reforms help millions harness the power of work and achieve the American Dream. Learn more about our workforce reforms at TheFGA.org/workforce-reforms.

Watch the full interview at:
TheFGA.org/videos

