THE CURE STARTS NOW

The Promising Pathway Act provides hope for terminally ill patients

The Promising Pathway Act is a bipartisan bill introduced by Congress to help thousands of Americans facing terminal illness by providing more access to lifesaving treatments.

Here, Dr. Gavin Baumgardner, medical counsel for The Cure Starts Now, discusses how the Promising Pathway Act builds on existing programs to reduce red tape and improve outcomes. This legislation would make lifesaving treatments available for more patients, process applications more quickly, and collect and utilize data more effectively. The Promising Pathway Act gives terminally ill patients and their families hope for the future.

“The [Promising Pathway Act] provides a potentially lifesaving pathway for terminal patients and their families to gain access to drugs they might not otherwise be afforded.”
