

How To Build Voter Confidence in Elections: Build an Election Crimes Unit

WHY DOES YOUR STATE NEED A NEW APPROACH?

Less than 60 percent of Americans are confident that their ballots will be accurately cast and counted. This lack of confidence undermines the foundations of our republic.

Many states give local district attorneys the only authority to prosecute election crimes.

This makes prosecution of these crimes a low priority and grants these offices unchecked power vulnerable to political influence... like funding from George Soros.

THE FOUNDATION FOR MORE SECURE ELECTIONS AND MORE CONFIDENT VOTERS:

BLOCK 1

A NEW ELECTION CRIMES UNIT

- Ensures a staff dedicated to election fraud investigations
- Monitors a voter fraud hotline
- Quick-response force for Election Day problems
- Reports annually to the legislature with investigative summaries and results

MATCHING PROSECUTORIAL AUTHORITY FOR THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

- Ensures accountability by granting the same prosecutorial authority to your attorney general across the state as local district attorneys
- Builds checks and balances by establishing dual authorities if local district attorneys are too overwhelmed or politically motivated to prosecute election crimes
- Deters fraudsters by sending a clear message that election crimes will be treated seriously by a dedicated watchdog

BLOCK 2

How To Build Voter Confidence in Elections: Build an Election Crimes Unit

IT'S POPULAR

of all likely voters support a special investigations unit of all likely voters support giving state attorneys general prosecutorial authority

IT'S TRENDING

States like Arkansas, Florida, Ohio, Texas, and Virginia have recently established offices that investigate election crimes. ✓

