Why does Paige love FGA?

“FGA champions solutions that encourage self-sufficiency. I am grateful to work with a team that fights to release individuals from government dependency.”

Paige Terryberry is a senior research fellow at the Foundation for Government Accountability.

Prior to joining FGA, she was a senior analyst for fiscal policy at the John Locke Foundation. She also previously served as an Advisor at Baron Public Affairs, LLC, and as Deputy Chief of Staff at the White House Council of Economic Advisers. Paige holds a Bachelor of Arts from Covenant College and a Master of Arts in Applied Economics from The George Washington University.

Paige first experienced the value of work as a camp counselor. To her, work means freedom and the ability to shape one’s own life.

When she’s not working, Paige loves to swim, sail, and enjoy other activities on the water. Paige lives in St. Petersburg, Florida.
