Why does Megan love FGA?

"The team at FGA has a passion for real policy change and it's apparent in their everyday work. I'm excited to be part of an organization that is focused on empowering every citizen to achieve their own version of the American Dream without government interference."

Megan Yarber is the Events Manager at the Foundation for Government Accountability.

Prior to joining FGA, Megan served as the Senior Event Planner at Public Strategies working alongside federal and state agencies, and she has more than a decade of events experience. She attended Oklahoma State University in Stillwater and majored in Animal Science.

Megan first experienced the value of work while raising her livestock projects during her time as a member of FFA. To her, work means having new opportunities to build character and gain the tools needed to choose your own path in life.

When she's not working, Megan enjoys RV camping with family, reading, and traveling around the globe. A fan of the Oklahoma State Cowboys and hunting season, Megan and her husband currently live in Oklahoma with their dog, Chewbacca.
