Why does Nick love FGA?

I have experienced the transformational power of work, and there's an immense dignity and pride that comes from that independence. I want more individuals to experience that same freedom.

Nick Stehle is the Vice President of Communications at the Foundation for Government Accountability.

Prior to joining FGA, Nick served in a variety of for-profit executive roles, including as a senior director at Advanced Search Laboratories and as chief operating officer at The Martin Organization, Inc. He holds a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science from the University of Arkansas at Little Rock.

Nick first experienced the value of work as staff assistant for then-Congressman Asa Hutchinson. As a beneficiary of hard-working family members, Nick is motivated to continue his family's legacy of independence and dignity and works to expand others' opportunities to experience the same dignity of work. He has testified before several state legislative committees.

Nick sits on the boards of several non-profits that exist to help children with special needs as well as those in the foster care system. A member of Fellowship Bible Church, Nick, his wife, and their four children live in Benton, Arkansas.
