Why does Tyler love FGA?

"I want to use my filmmaking and storytelling talents to help change people's lives. By the grace of God, FGA came along and I'm able to share stories from across the country and help be part of something bigger than myself."

Tyler Morehead is the Senior Producer at the Foundation for Government Accountability, where he helps enhance Americans' stories and FGA's messaging through visual media, including video series.

Prior to joining FGA, Tyler wore many different hats, including producer, director, and actor for several media companies. His work has been featured on TBN, NBC, CBS, The CW, and CMT, to name a few. He holds a Bachelor of Arts from Belmont University.

Tyler first experienced the power of work on his family's farm in Nebraska. Growing up in this environment, he learned that hard work was what would lead you to where you wanted to go and would get you just about anything you wanted. It's a lesson he's followed since his childhood. Tyler is passionate about sharing people's stories and helping them pursue opportunities towards a better life.

Tyler, his wife, and their giant Saint Berdoodle split their time between Tennessee and Florida.
