Why does Jared love FGA?

"I'm excited for the opportunity to play a part in providing more freedom to Americans by helping them be less dependent on government and empowering them to work."

Jared Giovinazzo is a Senior Designer at the Foundation for Government Accountability.

Prior to joining FGA, he was Creative Director at Trinity Commercial Group, a top-performing commercial real estate firm in Florida. For almost eight years he ran the marketing department and created all graphic design collateral for two office locations that executed close to $1 billion in transactions in South Florida. Jared also manages Gio Creative, where he offers freelance graphic design.

Jared first experienced the value of work while working the drive-thru window at McDonald's. To him, work means true freedom. It allows people to be liberated and teaches them the value of earning a wage.

A fan of all things Marvel and The Office, Jared resides in Naples, Florida with his wife and son.
